IN MEMORIAM

WILLIAMS—How sad to remember this day every year, Sept. 9, our darling Edward Williams' birthday

Dearest Edward we miss your sweet face, your cheery smiles. It seems to us each day as if we can hear your darling voice, the sound of your footsteps, and you coming in the door.

It is true that a link in our chain has been broken, but our love for you will always be our memory. It is so sweet to breathe your name as we pause beside your picture in the frame.

We often sit and think of him and speak of how he died, to think he could not say goodbye before he closed his eyes.

Sadly missed by Mother, Father and brother, Mattie, Walter and Floyd Williams). 9-10-1c

Wheat Program Signup Underway

The signup for the 1965 Wheat Program now is underway at the ASCS county office, J. A. Martin, Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee has announced. The signup will extend through October 2. Applications to take part in the program may be filed any working day, from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

The Chairman emphasized that participation in the voluntary wheat program is not automatic. The signup is the first step to qualifying for any of the program's benefits. Participating farmers can get about the same returns from the 1965 program as they received from the 1964 program. They may get more by using new options that will enable many producers to adapt the program more closely to their farming operations.

Growers who are interested in any of the program's new provisions should ask how these would affect their operations at the time of signup. These new provisions include substitution of wheat for feed grains or feed grains for wheat in the diversion program, and the establishment of an oats-rye base for certain farms.

Price support loans will average $1.41 per bushel in Appomattox County. Domestic certificates will be worth 75 cents per bushel (or as much as 45 percent of the allotment's normal production), and export certificates will be worth 30 cents a bushel (on as much as 35 percent of the allotment's normal production).

To qualify for diversion payments, the participating grower will also under-produce his allotment by at least 10 percent and devote those acres to approved, conserving uses. These payments will be based on 50 percent of the county price support loan rate and the normal yield for the farm and will average about $17.50 per acre in Virginia.

Local Youth Camps At Easter Seal Summer Treatment Center

ROBERT AYERS

An Appomattox youth was among the record number of campers who experienced a "dream vacation' this summer at Camp Easter Seal Summer Treatment Center, near New Castle.

Over 300 boys and girls ranging from 8 to 15 shared in this combination therapy and camping program which is operated by the Virginia Society for Crippled Children and Adults with Easter Seal funds.

The camper is Robert Ayers of Mrs. Peggy W. Ayers. His stay at the camp was sponsored by the Appomattox Junior Woman's Club.

Robert was enrolled in the Speech Camp where he was concentrated six-week program of therapy held in conjunction with the regular camp programming.

At this Easter Seal facility, therapy is combined with fun. The children enjoy swimming, canoeing, pony riding, softball and all the other activities usually associated with a outdoor camping program.

This summer's session marks the eighth year the facility has been in operation at its present site.

REV. THOMAS A. WADDILL
Pastor Speaks

Unfortunately, we do not have eye witness records for all of the ages upon ages of the history of the universe. Our scientists tell us that the period of recorded history represents only a drop in the ocean of time since the universe came into existence. No one was there to see and record God's mighty creative acts!

In time men began to record their experiences with one another and with Mother Nature. Some men looked around at their environment and saw in it testimony to the existence of God. One of these wrote the story of Creation in Genesis. Others heard God speak to them and listened to His directions as the peoples around them went blissfully on their way. A man named Moses heard God's call to lead a group of chosen people out of Egypt and into the land of Canaan. Some of these people had the necessary faith but many did not.

The Bible presents to us the story of these and hundreds of other people to whom God made Himself known, men whom God called to follow Him by faith. None of these men and women ever saw God. They saw signs and evidence of His existence and events which they interpreted as God's actions in history. The Bible is thus a record written over a period of 1000 to 1500 years, of God's dealing with men and women. The faith of some was great; the faith of some was small, but each had his place in God's unfolding plan for mankind.

The Bible is not a book of magic, though some people treat it as such. They keep it lying around the house to ward off evil spirits, or perhaps to impress the preacher! It is not a book of science and history, regardless of the fantastic claims sometimes made for it.

The Bible is a book of religion. It contains the truth about man and God. It is a road map showing man the way of Life. It shows man how to live an abundant and rewarding life, how to possess eternal life in this world and in the hereafter. The Bible should be understood for what it is and treated as such.

The Bible will do no one any good as long as the truths it contains remain hidden within its pages. Only as men discover these truths and put them to work in their lives will the Bible fulfil its true purpose.

Background Scripture: I Samuel 1 through 7.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 11: 1-7.

Spokesman For God

Lesson for September 13, 1964

What does the word "prophet" bring to mind? Fortuneteller, tea-leaf reader, weather predictor. "Old Man Moses?" One meaning of "prophet," to be sure, is a man who can tell you today what is to happen tomorrow. In the Bible this is sometimes the meaning of the word. Most prophets went in for prediction some of the time, and most "prophets' predictions sounded most unlikely to those who first heard them; but they came true. Indeed, according to Deuteronomy 18, one test of an alleged or self-styled prophet is the same as for a true one: Does what he foretells come true? If it does not, he is no true prophet. If it does, he is.

Exception to the rule

As a general rule, a prophet's contemporaries do not recognize him as such. Since most "prophets" are fakes, people suppose the true prophets are fakes too. Jesus said a prophet is not without honor except in his own country, families breed contempt, the proverb says. How often are we told that we see every day be a prophet? Now Samuel, whose story is in the Old Testament, was an exception to this rule. In his own day, in his own country, his own people did recognize and honor him. Samuel was a man of many affairs and many talents. He was a soldier, revitalist, judge, historian, kingmaker. But he is best known as a prophet. He had an extraordinary life. Every one knows the story of how his mother prayed for a child, and how this child was promised to the Lord before he was born. Well known too is the sotry of his life in the shrine at Shiloh as a kind of apprentice priest; and how he first became a sensation by his denunciation High Priest Eli, the aged, respectable and venerable Eli, head (if we may put it that way) of the State Church. What most people don't know is the rest of the story. Did his later life prove a failure? Was he a wonder-child, fading into obscurity after his one outburst?

Leader of man

By no means. That incident at Shiloh was just the start. Measured by immediate results, Samuel was perhaps the most successful prophet who ever lived. The people listened. When he led a revival, there were many conversions; when he led an army, the army won. When he selected a king, the people elected Samuel's man. As long as the king followed Samuel's guidance, he was a success . . . but that's another story. The point is, Samuel was a true leader; he was believed, obeyed, followed. His judgements were accepted as God's judgements. His decisions and his commands were obeyed just as if God had been literally speaking with Samuel's mouth.

No man lives forever

Samuel's successes as a military man did not make him a warmonger. His own battles were fought to set free his people from foreign domination; his aim was justice and peace. And justice and peace the Hebrews had for a generation.

And then what? Something slipped, everything seemed to slip. Not until the time of Solomon was there such a peace as in Samuel's time, and Solomon's peace, not being founded on justice, did not endure. There is a point here sometimes forgotten. No man lives forever; and no matter how good, brave, smart and successful a great man may be, sooner or later "his place knows him no more." Even a man who lives close to God must go the way of all flesh. We make a mistake if we think any man however good and great can arrange things so that his work has a successfully fought will never return. The Philistines, the enemies of Israel, never came back in Samuel's time. But in later days they were even more troublesome than ever before. So unless there are successors to great men, the great man's good may die with him.
